

DEATH LIST IN CRUISER TRENTON

Wentworth, Va., Oct. 22.—Arthur J. McCormick of Charlestown, Mass., and Franklin B. Jeffrey of Lynn, Mass., two of the men injured in the powder explosion aboard the cruiser Trenton on Monday, died today. The death list now stands at twelve.

Physicians have little hope for the recovery of John Uzzolino of Newark, N. J. He was burned internally and is in agony.

Two seamen died in the Naval Hospital at Portsmouth. They were Joseph Collier of No. 246 Monroe street, New York, and Malvin Franklin of No. 508 Seventy-eighth street, Brooklyn.

Under orders of Secretary of the Navy Wilson, three ordnance experts from Washington will arrive here today to assist in the investigation aboard the Trenton. Officers from the scouting fleet will come on board to assist in the investigation and will be assisted by Rear Admiral McCully, its commander.

Lieutenant John A. Redwood of Winthrop, Mass., and eleven men are under treatment at the Naval Hospital. Most of them will be discharged within a week, it was announced.

Just Redwood was one of the heroes of the disaster. When downed aboard a rough sea, he saved the lives of two men struggling in the water. A lifeline thrown to him from the cruiser he refused, and instead placed it around one of the men, straining by the force of the sea. Redwood is burned about the face.

Joseph Lee White, turret captain in charge of the enlisted men in the forward turret when the explosion occurred, was the only survivor who told of a view of the accident. He said:

"I gave word to the man at the ammunition hoist at the left gun to bring up powder for that side. He turned to the switch to start the ammunition hoist motor and a minute or so after there was a flash and the turret was in flames. The powder had not reached the gun when it exploded. I do not know whether it was a short circuit in the electric wires or not. Nobody knows. It just happened in a flash."

Three charges of powder, each weighing 30 pounds, were exploded, naval officials said.

Survivors of the disaster were told in their pride of the heroism of British-born Henry Clay Trevelyan, who went into the burning turret and pulled out three men, and as he was about to return to rescue the fourth, he was killed.

Letter Charge That the Only Paid Member of Department is a Kluxer

Milford, Oct. 22.—To some the notion as to what should be the name of a white, right or day, among them, may not have significance, but to the hon. vivante of the bias in Milford nothing is of more burning moment, as you must see.

Indeed, these good men of the right and left, and the third alarm are waiting only for the next fire to show just how they stand in the matter of race and respectability.

It may be that the gallant call of the department are in error about Alvin Karpis, who is the paid member of the crew and the man who holds the wheel in those case moments when the big truck is either going to or coming from a fire.

WEIRD COINCIDENCE.

It may be purely a mere coincidence that on Alvin's night off, the various short and pillowcase parties of the Klan King Klan have been about and Alvin's car is seen in the vicinity. The evidence is circumstantial.

Let it be said here that only one of the Klan members, who is known as a good red-headed freeman, tried to all work and rest come day or night.

BURNING QUESTION.

The burning question has gone straight into the hands of the Milford fire engineers and the call members have served an ultimatum that Alvin is to be a "Clay" Don, or, extra, or else the rest of the department, quite cold, he said, and fire or better.

It is clear that the ultimatum is a strike and not a mass resignation, because the dissenters have declared it so.

"Tough? Not by a jugful!" is what they declared, if you want the direct words. "We're going to strike and the next alarm that comes in must find the fire truck manned by a driver and no fireman."

ABNER DEFIANT.

On Alvin's part, he has admitted freely that he was at Saturday's Klan party in Worcester, where a good time was had by all, except the Klanman was punched on the nose and an airplane fell, and a few other trifles.

But Alvin, by the same or another, isn't admitting wrong, a darn that he is a Klan member.

"It doesn't make any difference what night I take off," said Alvin. "They say I'm at a Klan meeting, anyhow. The members of the company have had it in for me from then on because I'm the only Protestant in the crew. Then my job would look good to some of them at $15 a month."

That, in a nutshell, is how Alvin sizes it up.

The next fire will throw some light on the controversy.

CLARK COX IS BARRED FROM CITY JOB

What may be a suicide was revealed today when it was learned that James P. Powell of No. 79 Cup street, Dorchester, was missing from the Calvin Austin, a Boston to Portland bound boat of the Eastern Steamship Company, when the craft left for Portland.

Powell was reported missing October 14 to the police.

On that day he left home and boarded passage on the Portland boat. On reaching that port, however, the head of his hatroom was found to have been unoccupied.

The key to the hatroom was in the door on the corridor side. The room was found a pair of eyeglasses, a cigar and an identification card.

The card bore his name and home address. There was none of his clothing in the room.

Officials of the steamship company declared today that in their belief the hatroom secured by Powell was not occupied on the trip.

Powell is thirty-four years old, 5 feet 7 inches in height, weighs 175 pounds, wears tortoise shell eyeglasses, has gray hair and a mustache.

His car is a gray topcoat, gray suit, but his clothing shows no signs of wear. It was marked by a slight limp.

and Chief Condon superintending the work.

The witness said he had seen at least thirty bottles of liquor landed on the beach.

Asked to be specific as to the police officers he had seen with the smugglers, he didn't remember now, he said, but he remembered Patrick man Fiedelmann and Tru, both of them members of North Shore families.

Carmagno said that Condon evinced him in the plot, and that he was "booked" for $2,500 and had to stay in it to get his capital back. His first investment was $250.

BACKED BY "SCHUNKER"

A man named Schunker was the bankroll man, or treasurer," he said, but the others didn't trust him. They told me if I wanted to get mine I would have to act as bankroll man myself, and I did."

The witness said that $450 was paid for protection for every boat load of liquor landed.

"If that amount, I understood that $100 went to Burroughs, $100 to George and Cotechell, the policemen, $100 to Condon," he said.

Trouble developed among the runners, Carmagno continued. Cotechell told him that Condon was leaving crossing the gate.

"Once when Gracieb knew a boatload was coming in he went out to meet it and kept possession of the stuff until he got his," he declared.

PUT IN $150, GOT $1,000.

Kelcher, the hotel proprietor, put in $150 when the scheme was working, the witness said, got back $1,000 and quit.

Love and Rich were the boatmen and got wages for their labors.

Michael Sullivan, well known South attorney, is counsel for Kelcher, and he subjected Carmagno to a summer and longer cross examination after the noon recess.

FOUR HELD IN THEFT FROM NORWOOD STORE

Four men, arraigned in connection with thefts from the Norwood store, Francis A. Paine, were held for the Grand Jury today in Dedham District Court.

James Hays and Charles Stowers, both of Norwood, were held in $1,000 each, charged with the theft of the store's cash and fifty pounds of grease. Matthew Thatcher of Norwood and Frank Fisher of Taunton were held in $1,000 each on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

MAN, 80, BURNS TO DEATH 3 FEET FROM SAFETY

Winchester, Oct. 22.—Louis La (age, 80 years old) was burned to death in a fire which started in a small building which he occupied as a home here. When neighbors discovered the fire the flames had gained such a head that the building was consumed, but fell before the floor three feet from the door.

BEFORE BOSTON WILCOX IS BARRED FROM CITY JOB

Stanish Wilcox, chosen by Mayor Curley for the post of superintendent of public buildings, was turned down today by the State Civil Service Commission.

He is the third Curley selection for the place that the commission has rejected.

The others were Francis J. Driscoll of Roxbury, prominent in organized labor circles, and Michael Reddy, formerly a Representative from South Boston.

A conference between Mr. Wilcox and the full commission preceded his rejection.

Wilcox is editor of the City Record, and Mayor Curley's social secretary. He always has been close to the Mayor, serving him as an investigator for the police of the city, intervened for Osborne. As a result the latter was released by Probation Officer William P. Jones without arraignment in court.

Later, the police claim, Morawsh went to Osborne and informed him the probation officer was in serious trouble as he had released Osborne on Labor Day, a holiday.

BORROW FROM CHIEF.

Morawsh is alleged to have said State officials investigated and that Jones was fined $100, which he borrowed from Chief Keefe.

Morawsh, the police say, then told Osborne he (Morawsh) had $100 and wanted $10 more to pay Jones back to the police chief. Osborne is said to have given Morawsh $10, with the result that a warrant was issued for the Sunday school teacher later. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and the case was continued to October 3, Morawsh being released on bail.

The police say Morawsh served two sentences in Nova Scotia for obtaining money under false pretenses.

SEEK STORE BURGLAR WITH SMALL FEET

A burglar wearing either a size 24 or a shoe is wanted by the Somerville police for entering the store of Louis Levin, No. 1200 Broadway.

Eight pairs of shoes, valued at $128, were stolen. He left a pair of old shoes, valued at $5, and a pair of $8. The shoes taken were in various styles of brown and black oxford and were evenly divided between a total of high shoes and low cuts.

Roy C. Moreagh, Wanted by Somerville Police, Is Arraigned in Maine

Roy C. Moreagh, twenty-four-year-old Sunday school teacher, wanted in Somerville, is under arrest in Portland, Me., according to word received today by Chief of Police Keefe of Somerville.

Charged with the larceny of $150 from Roy S. Osborn, alias of Somerville, Moreagh defaulted when the case was called in Somerville District Court on October 8.

The missing man's description was broadcast and he was picked up by the Portland police. Life exact summary of the Somerville department went to Maine today to bring him back.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

According to the police, the alleged larceny occurred Feb. 2 at the arrest for drunkenness of a woman whose leg was injured, necessitating his removal to the Somerville Hospital.

Moreagh, who lived at No. 3 Heath street, Somerville, and also acted as an investigator for the police of that city, intervened for Osborne. As a result the latter was released by Probation Officer William P. Jones without arraignment in court.

data for the Presidency, carried the first city which has been credited to him in a number of days when he finished first in a block of 202 votes in Newport, R. I. This was not a vote of the Summer colony, but a pool of all-the-year-around folks, taken on Thames street.

In Cranston, R. I., on the other hand, the day's vote was:

Coolidge, 79; Davis, 21; La Follette, 15.

The New England situation remains unchanged. If this straw poll indicates the things at close who are employed upon it believes it does, the Republicans have nothing to fear except overconfidence.

The daily table of figures tells the story. The vote credited to "Columbus Avenue" is reported by an inquirer who took his stand in the region about Fairmount street. The "Milk Street" vote comes from the turn of the road.

LARGE VOTE POLLED.

The vote for the day in Massachusetts is higher than usual and Mr. Coolidge takes considerably more than half of it. The figures:

Total vote, 1,479.

Coolidge, 871.

Davis, 304.

La Follette, 298.

Democrats for Coolidge, 46.

Republicans for La Follette, 46.

Democrats for Davis, 110.

Republicans for La Follette, 82.

The poll is part of a decorated automobiles, the "Children's Caravan," will swing away from the main entrance to the State House tomorrow at 10 a. m., for a complete tour of the State in the interest of the Child Labor Amendment, soon to be passed on by Massachusetts voters.

The caravan has been arranged by the civil and labor forces of the State, and every community of consequence in the State will be visited.

A large number of persons prominent in the battle for child labor reform will accompany the caravan and will speak at the various places where it is halted.

The automobiles will be decorated with American flags and banners calling attention to Referendum No. 7 on the forthcoming election ballot. This is the child labor amendment, which would give Congress the power to fix hours and other conditions for all industrial workers under 18 years of age.

IN MEMORIAM VALLEY.

From Boston the caravan will proceed to Lynn where a stop will be made, after which the caravan will visit Haverhill, Lowell and Lawrence during the same day and evening.

Mrs. Richard Baker, wife of Boston politician, is going as a speaker, also Miss Mildred Doughton, representing the League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Sam Coo.

VOTES SLIPPING FROM DAVIS IN TENNESSEE

G. O. P. Hopefully Democrats Admit Candidates Not Inspiring

By JOHN J. LOHMEYER

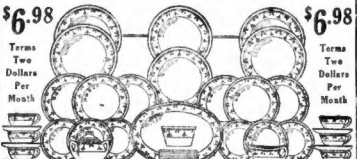

SAVANA, Ga., Oct. 22.—When over the Republican or Democratic National Committee receives a letter from a doubtful State declaring the party is desperately slipping or that an aggressive, fast trackway is in over the top in victory, that usually contains one significant paragraph: "We are badly in need of funds." Such letters are being sent out from Tennessee. I can't say they contain the significant paragraph. But it is everywhere evident here in this ordinary strong Democratic State, that the Democrats think they are slipping and the Republicans think one, final, aggressive push will crown them with victory.

William Smith, the State secretary of the Republican organization, says the G. O. P. has never approached as close here with such an effort. He said that Davis' sample evidence to justify the Republican's confidence. A misnomer was made that Mr. Davis had failed to fire the public imagination, a failure which they hope will be overcome by his late campaign visits here.

DETROIT POLICE SCATTER KLUKERS WITH PEPPER

THOUGHT, Oct. 22.—Four men and two women have whipped the Ku Klux Klan in Detroit. When 6,000 members of the Invisible Empire assembled and started a riot in front of a hall where a speaker was speaking the moblinations of the hooded order, the police reserves routed the rioters with a liberal use of the use and pepper.

The anti-Klan rioters was delivered by Alvin Karpis, former secretary to ex-Governor Jack Walton of Oklahoma, anti-semitic of the Klan.

DANIELS CHARGES PLOT TO SELL WATER POWER

FRASER, Calif., Oct. 22.—Another Tucson incident is hiding in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, Joseph Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, told a Democratic mass meeting here.

"There are powers at work on the Republican Party," he said, "which would like to turn over the water power of the nation prior to the parties who would make a billion dollars profit out of them."

GOVERNMENT TO RETAIN ARIZONA GUANO CAVE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Discovery of guano deposits in Bat Cave in Arizona has prompted the Interior Department to retain for the government the cave, embracing about 100 acres, which was sought by the Santa Fe Railroad.

Guano, it was explained today, is reported to be present in large deposits, and the original rock debris in the cave appears to be saturated with nitrates and phosphates.

DECLARES COAL AFFECTS PRICES FOR GASOLINE

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 22.—Gasoline prices will be regulated by the market price for coal, Walter C. Toole, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said today. Under existing conditions gasoline can be obtained from fuel oil in many instances at a cost lower than it can be obtained from crude petroleum, Mr. Toole said. "Fuel oil is sold in direct competition with coal," he said. "The reserves of coal are greater and more certain than reserves of petroleum and the price of coal so affects the price of fuel oil that gasoline is affected in proportion."

PRINCE IS DUE TOMORROW AT NOON

Prince to have his first lunch with the "Tuckermans," who officially are his hosts in his visit to the Bay State.

The shortening of his stay and his desire to meet as many people as possible caused him to change the plan and arrange to lunch with the "Tuckermans."

"It is too bad his visit is to be so brief," said Mr. Tuckerman today. "Nevertheless, we must be glad to make it a pleasant one."

SUFFER FROM CHILL

The Prince, suffering from a "chill and asthenic disposition," according to advances from Montreal, declined to spend American. The Prince is suffering from the grippe, combined with general fatigue.

He remained in his hotel room in Montreal all day yesterday and did not go outside the house, but left a radio set in his room.

Despite the illness of the Prince, the royal train that was to bring him to the North Shore, and later take him to New York, was waiting on a Montreal siding, with steam up, at 2 a. m. today. The hour originally set for the departure of the Prince. The train will remain on the siding awaiting orders until the Royal Highness is well enough to go aboard.

Mrs. Phyllis Sears Tuckerman, who was to have been hostess to the royal visitor on the Tuckerman place, Ravin Hill Farm, Hamilton, accepted the disappointing news from Montreal in a philosophic manner.

"I don't care for myself, but it is hard on all the people who wanted to meet the Prince, and will be unable to do so because of his short-circuited visit," she said.

"The dinner and dance at the Bay-Warrens, in Twenty-Farm, originally scheduled for Thursday night, will not be held. It was to be a brilliant affair, and many will be disappointed."

"The dinner and dance which Mrs. John S. Lawrence of Toronto was to give tonight will be held tomorrow night."

"We have been told that his latest plans call for him to leave Hamilton late Thursday night. That means only about twelve hours in Massachusetts. We cannot do very much for him in that time, but we will endeavor to give him the best time possible."

SPEEDIER AIR MAIL PLANES ARE WANTED

MYSTERY IN SOMERVILLE SHOOTING

An element of mystery has entered the slaying of Lester T. Follows, petty officer in the United States navy, who was shot through the forehead and killed by Patrick J. McGuire of No. 204 Powder House boulevard, Somerville.

McGuire, when arrested by the Somerville police, said that he accidentally shot Follows when he struck him over the head with his revolver as the sailor was endeavoring to unlock the front door of the McGuire home.

EVIDENCE DOESN'T JIBE. McGuire's story is at variance with the findings of Medical Examiner Thomas M. Durell, who found that the shot which struck the sailor on the forehead was fired from a distance of at least four feet.

According to McGuire, when he suddenly opened the front door of his home and grappled with the stranger, Follows with a key at the door lock, the stranger fell into his arms and struggling armed. McGuire maintained that he struck Follows on the head with his revolver, in endeavor to fell the intruder with the butt of the weapon, but in his excitement he struck the man with the muzzle of the weapon, the blow causing the accidental discharge of the revolver.

NO POWDER MARKS.

The medical examiner failed to find any powder marks on the dead man's forehead, which as would have been inevitable had the death weapon been fired at short range.

McGuire has been held under $1,000 bail on the charge of manslaughter.

The medical examiner also found considerable alcohol in the stomach of the sailor, indicating that the man was intoxicated when he met death.

ESME HOWARD PRAISES J. S. 'OPEN DOOR'

Concession Hunters Threaten
Peace of Home, Says
British Ambassador

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—The Downe Deputation plan has been in operation but a short time and it is already clear that there is a "nice little more good will and more charity abroad in Europe than there has been for ten years at least, if not almost for ten centuries." Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, declared in an address today at a luncheon of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation.

The ambassador referred to past activities of certain concession hunters and company promoters in various fields, who sometimes have threatened the peace of the world. He declared there is "only one way to eliminate this possible danger to peace and good will, and that is by the strict application of the American doctrine of the 'open door'."

"It is when you come to dealing with the peace of the world, that it is as difficult to receive them as it is to give them," he said.

"I have seen many who have believed that the payment of the same fixed by the Downe Plan may be a means of economic peace in the industrial countries. The doctors are afraid that a surplus of gold or goods may prove as injurious to a nation as a surplus of money power at the expense of a healthy industry."

"When I read the speeches of the various statesmen at the opening of the fifth assembly of the League of Nations, I could not help feeling that even in this mightiest gathering, some of the things they said must be construed that they are and all were limited with a genuine heart-felt desire to establish a reign of peace on earth and were not paying mere lip service to the cause of peace. I hope that any reference to the speeches at Geneva will not be construed by anyone as an attempt to influence American public opinion one way or another with reference to the League. Every American citizen has a right to his own opinion on this subject."

"Peace is the greatest objective of any statesman today. Modern war can only be destructive and ruinous in an ever-increasing degree. It is your business, you who are interested in world commerce and affairs, to see to it that your business is not such as to endanger peace and good will among nations."

Procession of Interesting Functions Arranged for Large List of Season's Debbies

By BETTY ALDEN.

THE good ship Debbies is in the water for the season 1924-25, and from now on the bobs will find plenty of use for the little pencil attached to their engagement book.

Mrs. Edwin S. Webster opened the weekly debbae functions most delightfully with the luncheon she gave at her Chestnut Hill home on Monday. Miss Catherine Holt was the house guest at the affair, which was attended by some seventy young girls, many of them sister-bobs of Miss Holt's. The latter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Holt of Concord and a member of the group elected to the Junior League this Fall.

Today has two interesting bad functions on the cards. Miss Mary Louise Butterfield of Chestnut Hill—one of the prettiest debbaes of last Winter—is giving a luncheon for Miss Gretchen Brown and Miss Virginia Lee, and Mrs. Charles Gould Webb is giving a tea at Chestnut Hill for her niece, Miss Elizabeth Sule, daughter of Mrs. Horace Sule of Brookline, the affair marking Miss Sule's debut debut.

FRIDAY marks the presentation of Miss Mary Hubbard whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Wheeler (Anne Hubbard), are giving a tea for her at the Country Club.

As for no means less important function is set for Friday evening, when Mrs. William Stuart Forbes of West Cedar street is giving a dance at the Mopha Hunt Club in Hamilton. To this luscious party, which is fair have been hidden not only some of the most prominent bobs of the season and their cavaliers, but several girls presented to society last Winter. In this group was Miss Barbara Forbes, the dark-eyed daughter of the house, one of the charming bobs of 1924.

Miss Forbes is a great little dancer and one of the dearest of the last Winter Club show was the Dresden shepherdess dance in which she took part.

HAMILTON, by the way, seems a most auspicious place to stage any event this week, what with the Prince of Wales arriving there this very day.

Few folk whose country estates are located on the North Shore are making the week in town, even though their town abodes be spread for the season.

PROPOSAL of late-season aloft, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie and their other daughter, Miss Nancy Carnegie recently arrived at "Stony Brook," their Manhattan country home, where they are spending the winter. The younger daughter, Mrs. Phineas Shaw Sprague (daisy Carnegie) and her husband have taken an apartment on Mount Vernon street.

ONE OF THE FAVORED DEBBAES
Prominent among the bobs of the season is Miss Mary Louise Butterfield of Chestnut Hill (left) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Holt of Concord. Miss Taylor is pictured with Mrs. Frederick S. Whitwell as they assisted at a recent charity fête given to aid disabled ex-service men.

Society Notes

MR. AND MRS. HENRY A. MORSE of Boston have been spending a few days in Newport at the LaFarge.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Davison (Anne Stillman), who were married last Saturday, are en route to Mr. Davison's ranch in Colorado. His brother, F. Truesd Davison, married Miss Dorothy Peabody, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Peabody of Groton.

Miss Elizabeth Boardman is remaining throughout the month at "Hill Top," West Manchester, before returning to town for the winter.

The Misses Amy and Clara Curtis of "Crown Island," Manchester, recently sailed for Paris, where they will spend the cold months.

Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Fabian have closed "Hickory Hill," their Beverly Farms home, and returned to the town residence on Commonwealth avenue.

Lathrop Brown of New York, who married Miss Helen Hooper of Boston, will be best man for his brother, Charles S. Brown Jr., when the latter marries Miss Mary Jane (Hickory) and her husband have taken an apartment on Mount Vernon street.

LA COLLETTE IN BOSTON SPEECH NEXT WEEK

Pooris, Ill., Oct. 22 (AP.)—Before Senator Robert M. La Follette came to Boston to address a rally in Cleveland Saturday night, November 1, he intends again to invade Michigan, Pennsylvania, and New York and to go into Maryland for a speech in Baltimore and into New England to address a rally in Boston.

The Independent Presidential candidate's itinerary for the remainder of the campaign was made public here today and in addition to his engagements at Grand Rapids, Mich., Syracuse, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Baltimore, already announced, he called for him to visit Schenectady, N. Y., for a speech Wednesday night, October 23, Boston the night of October 30, and Pittsburgh Friday night, October 31.

Senator La Follette speaks here tonight.

At St. Louis, he made another attack on President Coolidge, referring to him as the "inarticulate, speechless, witless figure in the White House."

The Wisconsin Senator's speech was devoted chiefly to an argument that farmers and wage earners should stand together on political issues.

COOLIDGE'S CHALLENGED BY WHEELER

Questioned on Oil Scandal and Daugherty, in a Statement from Headquarters

Washington, Oct. 22.—Declaring that various charges he has made against President Coolidge's administration during the campaign have gone unanswered, Senator Wheeler, the Independent vice-presidential candidate, today challenged the President personally to reply.

Through La Follette-Wheeler campaign headquarters here Mr. Wheeler today issued a statement covering most of the allegations he has made and submitted questions which he asked Mr. Coolidge to answer. They include:

"Why, Mr. Coolidge, did you wait for Congress to act before you started your halfhearted proceedings against the Secretary of the Interior, who had accepted a bribe of $100,000 from certain oil interests and had given away the navy's oil reserves in return for that bribe and for contributions to the Republican campaign fund?"

"Why, Mr. Coolidge, did you wait for Congress to expose the vile corruption in the Department of Justice before you consented to remove Attorney General Daugherty from office, when you, as well as all Washington, knew his record?"

"Why, Mr. Coolidge, do you still remain in the Department of Justice those men who worked hand in hand with Mr. Daugherty in covering crime and protecting criminals?"

"Why, Mr. Coolidge, when you knew that agents of your government were trailing members of the Senate and shadowing their homes, did you not have those men discharged from the public service?"

Supreme Court Turns Down
Barnstable Man's Election
Petition

Upholding the validity of a law long on the statute books, the full bench of the Supreme Court today dismissed the petition of Frank Thacher of Barnstable that his name be placed on the official ballot as a candidate for the office of commissioner of Barnstable County in the election on November 4.

In the primaries in September there were four candidates. There are two commissioners to be elected, John D. W. Bodfish of Barnstable and 1,445 votes, Thacher, 1,857; Bourne, 1,763, and Arthur Underwood of Falmouth, 1,127.

Under the law, the two commissioners may not be from the same city or town, so Bodfish of Barnstable and Bourne of Bourne, who ran third, were officially declared the candidates by Secretary of State Cook.

The drive against Bourne continuing, Thacher went to law about it.

Petition

Upholding the validity of a law long on the statute books, the full bench of the Supreme Court today dismissed the petition of Frank Thacher of Barnstable that his name be placed on the official ballot as a candidate for the office of commissioner of Barnstable County in the election on November 4.

In the primaries in September there were four candidates. There are two commissioners to be elected, John D. W. Bodfish of Barnstable and 1,445 votes, Thacher, 1,857; Bourne, 1,763, and Arthur Underwood of Falmouth, 1,127.

Under the law, the two commissioners may not be from the same city or town, so Bodfish of Barnstable and Bourne of Bourne, who ran third, were officially declared the candidates by Secretary of State Cook.

The drive against Bourne continuing, Thacher went to law about it.

You, yourself, rarely know when you have halitosis (unpleasant breath). That's the tedious thing about it. And even your closest friends won't tell you.

Sometimes, of course, halitosis comes from some deep-seated organic disorder that requires professional advice. But usually—and fortunately—halitosis is only a local condition that yields to the use of Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. It is an interesting thing that this well-known antiseptic that has been in use for years for surgical dressings possesses these unusual properties as a breath deodorant.

Test the remarkable deodorizing effect of Listerine this way: Rub a little ointment on your fingers. Then apply Listerine and note how quickly the ointment disappears.

This safe and long-tested antiseptic has dozens of different uses; note the little circular that comes with every bottle. Four druggists sell Listerine in the original brown package only—never in bulk. There are three sizes: three ounce, seven ounce and fourteen ounce. Buy the large size for economy.

COOLIDGE 'IN PLOT TO OUST MEIKLEJOHN'

President Acted Against the Amherst College Head, Richmond Declares

Charges that President Coolidge "conspired" with D. W. McMorro of the Morgan interests in demanding the resignation of President Alexander Meiklejohn of Amherst College were made at an open air La Follette-Walsh meeting in Brooklyn and New Bedford.

The speaker was George Chas. Richmond, divorced Episcopal clergyman, and for years a stormy petrel in the Roosevelt camp.

Mr. Richmond declared President Coolidge's alleged action in connection with President Meiklejohn was taken "because Meiklejohn sent his teachers into the city of Hoboken to induce labor leaders on the faculty of the old orthodox program of relations between capital and labor."

At the Amherst commencement Coolidge turned his back on a group of students who refused their diploma because of the treatment accorded the beloved President Meiklejohn.

New York, Oct. 22 (U.S.)—Sir Thomas Lipton, promoter of international yacht races, who is cheerfully known as the liner Lavinia today with the announcement that he would challenge again in 1925 for America's yachting cup and a new story about the Scotchman.

"Good morning," said Sir Tom to the newspaper correspondents and photographers who flocked about him. "Have you heard the one about the Scotchman?"

"No," they all replied. "The Scotchman, of course," said Sir Tom. "Was Harry Lauder, the one passing a storm in London last winter. He bought 1,000 pins for sale for a cent."

"Sir Harry could not resist such an enticing bargain. He laid out a cent and got a handful of pins. Then he counted a hundred times and found he had been cheated of three pins."

Czar and Family Still Alive, Mother Hopes; Denounces Cyril

Paris, Oct. 22 (A.P.)—The manifesto issued at Berlin by Grand Duke Cyril, declaring himself Emperor of the Russians, is disputed by the former Dowager Empress, Maria Feodorovna, in a letter to Grand Duke Nicholas Nikolaevich, who is now living in France.

The former dowager says Cyril's action was premature since she still hopes the Russian royal family is not dead. She addresses Nicholas as "The eldest member of the House of Romanoff" and says "our future Emperor will be designated by our fundamental laws in union with the Orthodox Church."

Nicholas, in publishing the letter, also disapproves Cyril's attitude.

Rainfall Comes

Suspension of the hunting season which started Monday on upland game is threatened by the drought. State fire wardens today were ordered by William A. L. Bazeley, commissioner of conservation, to examine all permits for fires in the open until after a heavy rainfall.

"The situation regarding fire is becoming dangerous," he said. "For several days now the weather has been extremely dry. Conditions in the woods are growing hazardous."

He intimated strongly that unless there was a diminution for forest fire reports, he would recommend to the Governor the immediate suspension of the hunting season.

"It is largely in the hands of the hunters themselves whether the season is to continue or not," he declared. "They must exercise care, particularly in regard to smoking, otherwise the hunting privilege will be taken from them."

Expert Tells, in Good Housekeeping, How to Take in Oxygen

Science has proved that we can live for weeks without food, but most instant death results from lack of oxygen, says Anna Hoxton Delavan in November Good Housekeeping, and then the writer proceeds to give these rules for teaching for health and energy:

"As winter draws near deep breathing is especially important, as a large percentage of colds, catarrhs, and pulmonary troubles are due to improper, shallow breathing. If there is tendency to throat and bronchial troubles you must practice breathing exercises which will give full use of all the air cells of the lungs."

WRONG WAYS TO BREATHE.

- "To strengthen the lungs and to ward off colds, catarrhs, bronchitis and pulmonary trouble, the entire thorax (which contains the lungs) must be expanded and the air brought into full play. Just so the following list of wrong ways to breathe and see how many of them you have made habitual.
- "1. Mouth-breathing with dropped jaw.
- "2. Shallow breathing where only the immediate top of the lungs is used.
- "3. Abdominal breathing, which throws the work on abdominal muscles.
- "If you have contracted any or all of the above habits make it a part of your daily duties to learn to breathe correctly, knowing that by so doing, you will tone up frayed nerves, improve the circulation and make the lungs stronger and the complexion clearer.

ACCUSED AS TORTURER OF DOGS

Newton Men Held After Many Valuable Animals Are Mysteriously Mistrated

A year's hunt for the person responsible for the burning of scores of Newton dogs, came to a head in Newton Court today when Joseph Gentile of Oak avenue, Newton, was arraigned charged with mutilating two animals through fire.

Gentile, a young man in Newton court, was placed under bonds to keep the peace following court arraignment, during which it was testified that he had caused an alleged "severe" death, sign on the tree of

For the past year, valuable dogs in Newton have been damaged through fire. All efforts to find the guilty torturer proved unavailing.

Several days ago, a dog named "Pete," a valuable Chesapeake Bay retriever, came from the barnyard, jumping its spin and with its tail

Curry, accompanied down to the ground and discovered that a small light, such as is used in emergencies by railroad crews, was tied to the dog's tail.

The electrician drove to the rear of the house and found Gentile on the premises, the only person in the vicinity.

Gentile, according to the charges at the electrician's apartment, had asked: "Who do you think could have done it?"

Subsequent investigation by the police resulted in Gentile's arrest on a charge of burning "Pete," son of a blue ribbon winner and owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Gannon of No. 125 Weston street, West Newton.

Another charge of burning a dog owned by Joseph Gannon, next door neighbor of Gentile's, was placed against him.

Judge W. and P. Bacon continued the case today until Saturday to afford him opportunity to view the barnyard and check up on witnesses' stories.

Crippled Boston Girl Scorns Aid, Will Earn Own Living

HELEN KELLER
She made her blindness a stepping stone to success.

There is a girl in Boston who, no doubt, deserves and gets a lot of pity and sympathy.

She is bound to get more of both, however, because she has learned that cripples have made their way in the world before her, that cripples have made success, that many cripples have risen above the infirmities and have made the world forget them in its admiration for the person.

This girl has opened an office where she will do typewriting and the like. She will make a success.

Perhaps this girl scoffed at what Miss Keller and Milton did—they were merely blind. She suffers from a deformed and twisted back.

Milton and Miss Keller, particularly Milton, did not have much advantage from schooling.

Miss Keller, is that cripples have done wonderfully well. Do many realize that Senator Gore was blind? How many are there who know that Congressman Ephraim, the Georgian politician, and the terms of all anti-polliticians, has never touched his feet to the ground without crutches to help him hold up?

His present age was known as an older famous cripple, and he too found that his entrance into politics was not hindered by his physical difficulties.

HOWARD'S BROTHERS 'GHOSTS' ORGANIZE

New Club Formed in Riot of Noise and Is Named Rine Hart

Howard's first and only ghost club was formed in a riot of noise. It has no officers, but its members are all Howard's seniors—and its name is Rine Hart.

That is why among the "ghostly" members in the Howard school an announcement forecasting the new club, based from John Howard's window to shake the old yard "ghost" house, being the "ghost" club.

"There will be an important meeting in the line that will complete at 10 o'clock," announced the person.

Just as the clock reached 10, a "ghostly" call sounded across the "ghost" house. Immediately, it's all lights, lights, lights, lights with the call growing and swelling. A "ghost" was not supposed to, until late at night, an "ghost" "Rine Hart" could be heard.

It is said that the club will "meet" first between the hours of 10 and 11, this came with the "ghost" in the Howard school.

An old and growing tradition is thought to have crystallized with the "ghost" announcement, but the tale is told like this in the "ghost" house.

Many years ago a girl had come from the West to Cambridge. He attended classes and at home, for the law no one, and never put in the way, and just was. That was the Hart, or Rinehart, or something like that, they say.

The days grew into weeks, and the weeks into months, and finally Rinehart moved into a senior dormitory. He had a few friends, but his classmates knew, for friends didn't come and he hadn't the knack of meeting class and going round with them.

Perched on a stool, to save space up to friends come, often stand before and yell their desire to see these friends. But there was never a call for Rinehart.

Soon his need for companionship became gnawing, they say. So one day he went to the window, and Rinehart looked out the cool, strong and cold, and called "Rinehart" come down. Then he rushed into the hall, and in the window and yelled "All right, in a minute."

Many times he did this, until there in the hall inconspicuously began to know that Rinehart existed. And it wasn't long until a real ruler more than others, and he finally didn't have to summon him self or so they say.

And Rinehart's ghost now sees to it that he has no dependence, periodically, raising the yard and interrupting study when you yell his name from study windows.

When a manufacturer produces something of which he is proud he brands it with a distinct trademark and gives it a name.

For this reason, nationally advertised goods carry with them the assurance of their purity. For goods which are not advertised show that the maker of them lacks assurance.

The manufacturer who advertises his product invests good money in making a brand familiar to you. His advertising is profitable so long as you continue to buy his product. But, of course, if the quality should alter for the worse you would cease to buy and his advertising becomes a dead loss.

There is a reactionary effect of advertising upon the quality of material. The very fact that a man spends large sums in making a particular brand known is a guarantee that he is keeping the goods branded up to the mark. And if it is not branded it is an evidence that there is no authority behind it, no guarantee of their genuineness.

The public is justified in putting its faith in advertised products.

No one can keep up if it is made universal. By and by the public come to suspect it. Just as a light at a street corner is better than a policeman, so the publicity of advertising is better than any threatened action in the courts.

Advertising shows that a man is not ashamed of his product and that he is sure that the use of it will bring him more trade.

Those who use unbranded goods are the small minority who believe in and read anonymous letters.

HUB DOCTOR ADVISES GIRLS WASH FLOORS

DR. MARY EMERY
Blow at the Alibis of Shaking Flappers

Behold a new formula for the flapper's beauty code: scrub and be sylph-like, weed the garden and be willow, dance the ballet and be conscience free—and it's all in the cause of health!

Dr. Mary Emery, one of Boston's leading osteopathic physicians, states that habit dancing, scolding floors, weeding the garden and others of the homely, housey chores are wonderful aids to beauty and health.

"Remarkable cures for abdominal disorders are effected purely by current exercise," she says. "If the girls of today did more house work they would be far healthier."

According to osteopathic abdominal muscles is most essential. I frequently prescribe to patients the simple task of dusting their floors on their hands and knees. It is a most beneficial exercise.

HELP ME—GET THIS.
Dr. Mary Emery, the youngest young man who has lately bewitched her scores of admirers, performing a feat that a "reclusive" abdomen could keep up with to more valuable persons by helping a probably overburdened mother with her household.

This theory of current exercising as a successful cure for bodily disorders was widely discussed at the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Osteopathic Society, Dr. C. J. Giddie, secretary of the American Osteopathic Association, expounded the treatment in a speech before the convention.

As the telling scrub woman, the trading gardener and the weary dancer may well admit the professional optimism of the poets, that "in the mud and scum of things something always, always stings."

They should be good for long life and happiness when the bloated child of luxury is in the throes of abdominal distress.

HOW TO FLATTER.
A scrub-floor prescription prices a cruel blow to Miss Alibi. Father's stomach aches for not being number one, so cruel as the recently published idea of a famous doctor specialist that "wondering dishes kept the hands soft and white. Now, in self-defense of her waiting ladies, the daughter of the house must become a maid as well as a domestic adjunct to the home. If she has read this year's rules:

Soon will be a common sight to see an ambitious young Beauty taking her morning constitutional by scrubbing the mud, weeding the garden or indulging in fantastic terrace chosen walks.

Accuracy and Speed—These Qualities Win in the Newspaper Business as in Every Place Else. This Explains the Boston American's Standing in Sport Field

PROBLEMS OF QUARTERS INCREASE AS DEFENCES TIGHTEN

POOR PLAY IN PINCH COSTLY

By Herbert Reed (RIGHT WING)

As the day of the fall game begins to tighten up, the defenses for the hard tests that mark the closing days of October and the opening days of November, the problems of the quarterbacks increase in number and perplexity.

As long as the defenses are moving rather freely, the quarterback is in a position to make a play for himself. But when the total defense is set down by sharp defense, the quarterback will be the center of the attack against the little field game.

One error or more that results in the selection of the wrong passing play, may result in a costly loss. It is the quarterback's duty to have a plan of attack in mind, and to be able to change it at a moment's notice. The quarterback must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

For the quarterback to be successful, he must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself. The quarterback must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

Coaches are advised of the selection of the quarterback to be used in the game. The coach must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

For several years the Harvard quarterback has been a problem. The coach must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

There is no place in a modern football game for the quarterback to be a problem. The coach must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

It has been said, and justly, that the quarterback is the eyes of the defense. The coach must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

It follows that the quarterback must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself. The coach must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

Quarterbacks of the college will appear, will begin to catch the attention of the spectators in the early November games.

DOOLEY CRITICIZED
Dooley, of Dartmouth, has been criticized for failure to score against Yale when he had a chance to do so. The coach must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

In the first place, he put on a simple formation. It is not a simple formation. The coach must be able to read the defense and to be able to make a play for himself.

There was also no travel against the corners of the field, since there was no man back in the kicking or punting position.

RED BULL OF FOOTBALL

"Red" Granger, rip-roaring, slashing, smashing, ground devouring halfback of the University of Illinois team. This twenty-two-year-old halfback played a lone hand in demolishing the Michigan warriors, scoring five touchdowns, four of them in the first forty minutes of play. During the game he carried the ball twenty-one times and gained 253 yards. His best runs were for 90, 65, 55 and 45 yards.

One May Be Too Smart

Football Coach Believes That Way and Bars Newspapers for Men in Training

THE power of the press may have overreached itself in the matter of distributing news and opinions of the football men.

It is the opinion of one coach who has decreed that newspapers and other literature that contains anything on the collegiate game be kept from members of the team during training.

During this week the coach says there is such a thing as a football candidate becoming "too smart" and inclining to the side of praise, to an idea of his own great merits. Situation, he says, does not make for morale.

Perhaps if a young man is inclined to be "too smart" it will be to do better with him in a football way. Those who know it all and won't be taught are so much dead material, not worth further effort.

900 PAIRS OF PHONES ON ONE SET

And Five Loud Speakers for Hospital Patients in Washington

A real "radio central." Just like a regular telephone central, it is now in operation at the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. Hundreds of patients are entertained daily over the radio.

To this "radio central" are connected nine hundred sets of headphones and five loud speakers.

Donated war veterans find their hours of pain passing easily under the soothing influence of music from the ether.

Signals from local and distant stations are received in the central room on a five tube receiver and amplifier. The music was installed by the "Roxy Radio Fund," thousands all over the country subscribe to provide music for the sufferer in hospitals in many sections who otherwise would be deprived of this source and inspiration.

The installation is unique. Thousands of feet of wire connect up the individual receivers with the main control and inspiration.

Each broadcast listener may well stop to consider how deeply appreciated is that gift of entertainment and instruction to thousands of patients in hospitals, many of them waiting for the call of the Great Beyond.

HIGH POWER, MONOPOLY NOT CONNECTED

There is no connection between the projected high-power stations and monopoly, according to the promoters of the project.

Talk of a Zou City, "is supposed to be planning one. Another is projected by a broadcaster on the Pacific Coast. One is talked of for Cleveland and another for Cincinnati.

So far as known, none of the large manufacturers have any intention of establishing a high power station except in an experimental way.

Although most broadcasting apparatus is 500 watts or less, there is a limit on what can be made, and it will be up to the purchaser to find a legal method for operation.

Seven years ago Congress authorized the War Department to improve Boston's outer ship channel. Since then not a cubic yard of silt has been taken from the bottom. Meanwhile cargoes wait. Minute Men get busy!

BOSTON AMERICAN

Because vessels are forced to wait outside the harbor for sufficient water depth, the time advantage of Boston's outer proximity to European ports is lost. This with unfair differentials blocks Hub's advance.

Boston Waits 7 Years for War Department to Improve Port--Call Out the Minute Men!

MINUTE MEN are wanted for sea duty! The duty is to make the world "see" Boston and New England. As a beginning, it is necessary to put the Hub before the eye of the War Department.

SEVEN YEARS AGO Congress authorized the War Department to improve Boston's outer ship channel, from President Roads through Broad Sound to a depth of forty feet at mean low water.

The channel today is but thirty-five feet deep. Larger vessels draw thirty-eight feet under speed in the rough outer waters. Therefore, they are compelled to wait for tides outside the harbor before entering.

SEVEN YEARS HAVE PASSED, but the War Department has not torn a cubic yard of silt from the bottom of the channel.

Imagine how many liners of all kinds have waited for high tide outside Boston Harbor during those seven years!

Think of the wasted time, of cargoes sent to other ports because of over seven years of Rip Van Winking.

The authorization by Congress instructed the War Department to use any unexpended balances for Boston Harbor for the deep channel project.

But the big "out" about the proposition was that the "unexpended balances" were practically negligible.

Therefore, nothing was done, nor has there been a move since to secure an appropriation.

Seven years is too long for an active Minute Man to wait.

Had the Minute Men of '76 waited that long a different flag might be flying today over Boston Harbor. But now the warning lanterns have gone up—two lanterns, because the danger to Boston's prestige is by sea—and the 1924 Minute Men, headed by Frank S. Davis, manager of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Maritime Association, are hard riding to give the alarm.

The call to arms has sounded. Work is out for every Bostonian and every New Englander live and foresighted enough to become a Minute Man.

Manager Davis has brought about a hearing before Major S. C. Godfrey, chief of the United States Engineer Corps Division, in a fight for a deeper ship channel from President Roads to the open sea.

While he is "resting," Manager Davis, with the co-operation of supporting organizations, is hammering unfair differentials, discriminating against the port of Boston to the benefit of other ports with inferior facilities.

Unfair differentials and mean low water are blocking the advance of the Hub port to a higher notch—perhaps the leadership—in the listing of America's centres of sea commerce.

"Mean low water" can be taken two ways, particularly when it has been mean enough to block considerable shipping in and out of Boston, because the main ship channel is not deep enough at low tide to accommodate larger vessels of today.

Because these vessels are forced to wait outside the harbor for sufficient water depth, the time advantage of the Hub's closer proximity to European ports is lost.

Merely for comparison—Boston is nearer Liverpool by 371 land miles than is the port of Philadelphia, 206 miles nearer Liverpool than New York, 335 miles nearer than Baltimore and 1,922 miles nearer than New Orleans.

Yet the port of Boston trails all these in the matter of exports and imports. Unfair differentials are a contributing cause, together with the inadequate channel.

WHAT WAS PROMISED 7 YEARS AGO

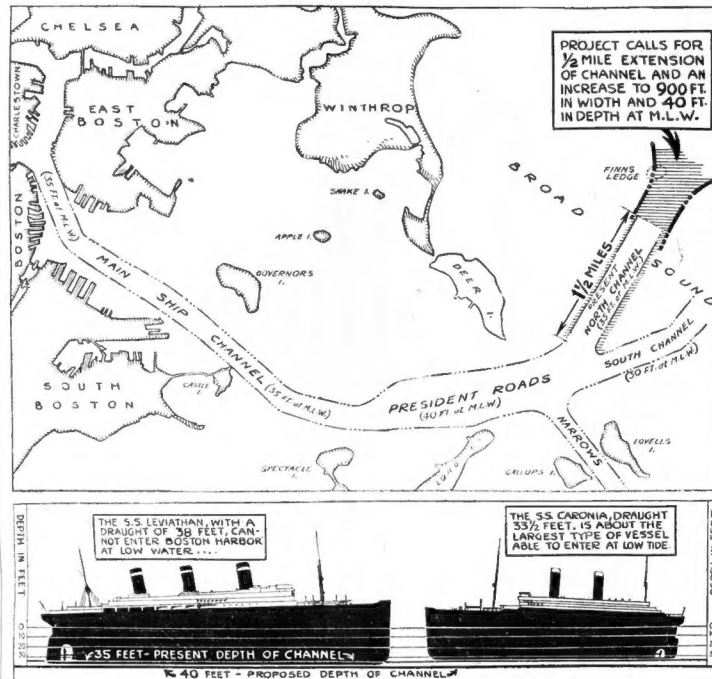

Chart shows location of channels down Boston Harbor, the widening and deepening of which Congress authorized seven years ago and which the War Department has never attempted to carry out. The S. S. Leviathan, only one of a number of vessels unable to enter this port at will, draws three feet more water than the channels hold at mean low water and consequently has to wait outside for high tide before she can steam up to the dry dock at South Boston, the only dock in the world that will hold her huge bulk.

Boston is discriminated against in the matter of differentials, to the extent of a three-cent and two-cent difference per 100 pounds of general cargo over the rates charged respectively to Baltimore and Philadelphia, for instance.

On grain shipments, the Hub is rated one and a half cents and one cent, respectively, above charges on shipments to Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Therefore, a shipper in Chicago with 100 tons of a general commodity for England, ships via Baltimore preferably, because the rail freight to that port is three cents per 100 pounds less than the rate to Boston.

If his tons are "cargo tons," weighing 2,240 pounds each, his freight bill by rail is just $67.20 smaller than if he routed his goods to Boston.

Prior to the war, the effect of these differentials was but slightly felt in Boston's port, because the steamship companies, by reason of the shorter ocean distance from Boston overseas, made up the difference through adjustment of their own rates.

The practice of adjustment has been halted by the water shippers, however, and Boston is the sufferer through loss of trade.

But the present crying need is an outer channel of sufficient depth, width and length to accommodate big vessels that will come here if such accommodations exist.

As an instance of what may be expected, the White Star Line, next March, will transfer four of its trans-Atlantic liners, the Baltic, Adriatic, Cedric and Celtic—two 24,000 and two 22,000-ton liners—to Boston.

They will sail from here and return direct, instead of making this merely a port of call.

A modern ship channel—900 feet wide, forty feet deep and two miles toward the sea from President Roads—will allow the largest craft afloat to come into Boston Harbor at any water.

Then will be avoided such annoyances as a twenty-four-hour wait outside the harbor for a favorable tide forced upon the Majestic when she came here to drydock.

The need is for Minute Men of Boston to awaken the War Department into a realization that Boston Harbor needs this modern ship channel.

The War Department's attitude was shown at a recent hearing in Boston, when Major Godfrey stated that the War Department does not regard it as essential at present that Boston should have a deeper and wider sea lane.

SEVEN YEARS AGO, Congress, however, decided that the Hub did.

Minute Men here on the spot hold this same view, as evidenced by their statements at the hearing.

Captain Clifford E. McField, representing the Boston pilots, declared that thirty-five feet of depth is decidedly inadequate.

Chairman Williams of the State Public Works Commission stated that the Commonwealth's belief in harbor needs is so great that it has expended more than $20,000,000 on harbor improvements in the Hub, to the Federal Government's $12,000,000.

Sidney J. Jackson, manager of the International Mercantile Marine Company, said his ships draw thirty-eight feet of water and their harbor movements are hampered under present conditions.

The Leviathan had to be brought into the harbor and taken out again at high tide, when she came here for drydocking, because she draws thirty-eight feet when under speed to overcome rough water, Captain Williams, U. S. N., asserted.

L. J. Coughlin, director of the United States Shipping Board at Boston, said it is possible that the Shipping Board may operate a line of passenger vessels out of Boston, and a channel suited to modern requirements would help.

These are only some of the Minute Men riding hard with Frank S. Davis, because of the warning lanterns denoting danger to Boston's and New England's trade at sea.

Back in the halcyon days, when sailing was sailing and all New England knew that a sheet was a rope, and not a square of cloth, Boston was a port of ports.

Her harbor gave anchorage to vessels flying the colors of all nations trading by sea, and out of the Hub rippled Yankee craft bound for the ports of the world.

At present the Hub is the second passenger port of the world, trailing New York alone. Water-going commerce is showing an increase yearly, but the advance is due mainly to coastal trade.

For the calendar year of 1923, foreign imports totalled 3,049,089 cargo tons, while foreign exports were only 355,101 tons, or a total of 3,604,190 tons, placing Boston in sixth place.

Including all water-borne commerce, the tonnage (short tons) totalled 15,217,663 in 1923, compared with 8,146,783 tons in 1915.

Not so bad as it might be—and not so good, by the same qualification!

Boston can regain her place as the leading port of the country.

Her leading Minute Men and her supporting Minute Men are fighting hard to that end.

This is one of the six natural ports of the land. In the Army Base the Hub has one of the greatest ocean terminals in the entire world.

She has the largest drydock in the territory washed by the seven seas and the Boston Fish Pier is the most extensive and most modern in all the universe.

The largest wood warehouses are in the Hub and the huge Commonwealth Pier is one of the biggest and most efficiently operated docks in America.

Directly in back of Manager Davis of the Maritime Association in fighting the differentials case and the battle for a real ship channel are the Chambers of Commerce of Portland, Me.; New Bedford, Fall River; Providence and New London, Ct., the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the City of Boston and others.

But more fighting talent is needed. The weight and strength of every Minute Man and prospective Minute Man is needed.

This is where volunteer Minute Men come in for sea duty!

Tell your Congressman the deeper channel is necessary for New England's advance.

Tell your Senator.

Tell Secretary of War Weeks, Massachusetts man, who should understand New England's twang and New England's determination.

Let Washington know that New England's seven-years' wait is ended and that Boston wants to be the FIRST port in the United States.
